

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor device, including: a semiconductor chip having a polarity; and a plurality of protection diodes connected in series with polarities thereof being arranged in the same direction, the protection diodes and the semiconductor chip being connected in parallel with the polarities of the protection diodes being arranged in the same direction as the arrangement of polarities of the semiconductor chip.